

NEVADANS MAY GREET ROOSEVELT ON HIS RETURN

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Senator George S. Nixon of Nevada is anxious that his state should be well represented at the reception of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in New York, June 18.

"It is only proper," he said yesterday, "that the reception to Theodore Roosevelt on June 18th, when he returns from a triumphant tour through Europe and a well-earned vacation in the wilds of Africa, should be the most cordial and tremendous ever tendered an American. I have not the slightest doubt that it will equal that accorded General Grant upon his return from his famous trip around the world more than thirty years ago and would not be surprised if it surpasses any ovation recorded in history. Roosevelt stood for big things and he fought for them. He was the one man we had been needing and his work is imperishable.

"It is gratifying to know that this is to be a non-partisan reception. Our only living ex-president and most distinguished private citizen is the common friend of us all. He has been feted and otherwise honored by the kings and commoners of the old world, he has been the distinguished lecturer at the leading universities of Europe and has done much to further the prestige of this country. I sincerely hope that the proper committees in the cities of my state will communicate with the Roosevelt reception committee in New York and see that she is well represented as she should be."

NEW PAPER SOON MAKES APPEARANCE

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS SPEAK OF GREAT NEED OF PAPER IN RENO.

Congressman George Bartlett, Judge James Sweeney and Henry Bartlett business manager of the Sun, the democratic daily that is soon to shine upon the people of California, arrived in Reno this morning, says the Gazette.

Henry Bartlett stated that the first issue of the Sun would appear in the first ten days of June, the exact date not yet having been settled.

"The plant is installed with the exception of the linotypes, and we shall start off with a fine circulation and a handsome advertising patronage. We think there is room for a real democratic paper in San Francisco just as there is for one in Reno. We have not definitely settled our plans for the Reno paper, although from what I have been told by a number of prominent democrats from this state there is a vital need for a real democratic morning paper in the metropolis of Nevada. This question will soon be seriously taken up and official announcement of our plans will be made later.

Henry deserves lots of credit for the way he has stood by the Sun project, and his many friends in this state hope he will make a huge success of it from the start. Arthur Dunn, formerly editor of the Goldfield Tribune, will be the editor of the Sun.

FREE SHAVES FOR POOR PEONS OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 25.—Free wash tubs, free baths and a barber who will give his services gratis to those who cannot pay are among the strikingly novel features of the plans for keeping the poorer classes neat and clean during next September, when Mexico will celebrate her one hundredth anniversary of her independence.

Governor Guillermo de Landa y Escandon, who is chief executive of the federal district of this country, is the official who has ordered free baths and a free barber shop. Governor Landa is considered a great friend of the poor people of this country. It was he who first organized the up-lift movement, and spent thousands of dollars to help elevate the working people of the federal district.

He rented theaters so that the poor might attend moving picture shows. Between the pictures he and his friends delivered lectures.

Now, he will establish free night schools. His plans include a huge park where the working men and their families can go every Sunday afternoon and enjoy amusements free of all cost.

GOOD STORY.

A good story is being told on a couple of residents of this city. We have no desire to place them in any prominence and therefore forego the pleasure of giving their names.

They were standing on the depot platform at Reno the other night when one of the big passenger trains came in. One of the gentlemen, Jim, for short, asked Joe what the green flags on the rear end of the train were for. To this question he was informed that meant that another was soon to arrive.

Jim thought over the matter seriously. The next day when he passed down the street Joe noticed something peculiar with the baby buggy containing the youngest Jim, and upon looking closely discovered a green flag flying from each one of the handles of the carriage. He isn't saying a word or offering any more information to his friends.—Carson Appeal.

BOUND TO GRAND JURY.

The preliminary examination of the seven defendants, charged with conducting saloons on the Humboldt national forest reserve was held before the United States commissioner today and all of them were held to appear before the United States grand jury. None of them made any defense to the charge.—Elko Independent.
